The appointments are piling up for the free baby picture contest. The coupons are being turned over to a local studio, which then sends out a card telling the parents the time and hour to come in for the picture.

The studio is to publish all the pictures made, and it is hoped that the child below school age will be presented when the pictures are published in The Anvil Herald. Explained last week, there is a charge to the parents of any child under six years of age. The coupon entitles the parent to have a picture made in a local studio. After the picture is made, the proof may be taken at the studio, and later the picture will be printed in The Anvil Herald.

There is no obligation to buy a picture, not even a subscription, although portraits may be ordered from the studio if they

Filing Deadline Is Saturday

The County Judge last Friday executed a declaration that the territory of Castroville is now incorporated with all powers and rights incident to such incorporation under the laws of Texas, and called an election for Tuesday, Nov. 25 to elect a mayor, five aldermen and a marshal.

Ralph L. Tschirhart has been appointed presiding officer of the election.

Election Judge Tschirhart has requested that all persons wishing to announce their candidacy to one of the offices file with him by Saturday at the latest. No indication of who candidates will be for any of the offices has been given as yet. Complete ticket of candidates will be drawn up after Saturday.

Sanitarian Scared Off

Hondo almost had a new sanitarian last week, but he took one look at the housing situation and decided to go elsewhere.

The sanitarian post has been vacant since the resignation of W. T. Mills some months ago. Duties of the sanitarian are to arrange inspections of municipal and private water supplies and water plants, to check eating and drinking establishments, slaughter houses, milk coming to market and other such things relating to the general health of the community.

The Anvil Herald will be published Wednesday of Thanksgiving week instead of the usual day. News and ad copy must be in our office at least a day earlier than normally.

G. Williams, C. C. Dile and David E. Williams who was appointed Second Lieutenant and will serve as platoon leader.

Captain Lee also announced that

Louis Schott Rites Nov. 13

By Cora Lee Sittre
RIO MEDINA — Interment of Louis F. Schott was at San Fernando cemetery in San Antonio at 9 a.m. last Thursday morning.

Mr. Schott died the preceding Tuesday evening, Nov. 11, at the age of 72 at Santa Rosa hospital.

Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Barbara Schott, six brothers, Emil, Eugene, Robert, Albert, Charlie and August, and one sister, Mrs. John Hoffman. Two sisters preceded him in death.

Pallbearers were Robert Hoffman, Johnny Jr., Oscar Haby, Raymond, Rudolph and Cornelius Schott.

he will start a Latin-American platoon as soon as he has enough recruits. Only requirement for enlistment is that they be over 17 years old and be able to pass the physical examination. The guard unit requires one two-hour evening period each week, night to be announced later. All members receive pay from the government at the regular rate for their grade. A buck private will receive $2.50 per week.

Lee also pointed out that a complete uniform is issued to all enlistees, plus other equipment as prescribed. Most of them will carry .45 automatics, there being very few rifles in an AT company, and there will be some carbines.

Discharges from the guard are handled entirely by Lee in Hondo. If some enlistee decides to go away to college or finds that time spent in training works a hardship on him or on his family, he can be discharged with no red tape.

Only 495 In County Have Paid Poll Tax

With elections coming up in 1948 for everything from Constable to President or the United States, voters of Medina County are lagging woefully behind in payment of their poll taxes, according to Tax Assessor-Collector James Duncan's receipt records.

Through Nov. 17 only 495 persons had paid their $1.75 for the right to vote. Receipts last year were 572 for the month of October alone, and the total eligible voters numbered 3,600. For 1948 there should be about 4,500 eligible voters, according to Duncan, but that number will never be reached at the present rate.

Duncan expressed an appeal to various civic organizations to aid in a drive to get the taxes paid. The Medina Valley Lions club, the Castroville and Hondo Lions clubs and the Hondo Jaycees, he said, could aid greatly in this project of moving voters to insure their right to vote by payment of the poll tax.

The poll tax this year will not be included in the regular tax bill, so each person must make a special effort to pay at the courthouse. If various civic organizations do stage drives, they can set up booths in public places where voters can collect their receipts on payment of the $1.75.

Slow Drizzle Helps Little

A slow drizzle last week and the first part of this week opened up into rain for brief intervals to add slightly over half an inch to Medina County's dwindling water table, while last week the first frost of the season hit in Hondo according to the Hondo weather records of H. E. Haass.

Rains started Monday Nov. 10 with .03 inches, added .10 inches the next day and then skipped one. On Thursday and Friday there were .15 and .06 inches respectively, bringing the week total to 0.34. Additional moisture through Monday night of this week brought the total to .59 inches.

Temperature of 31 degrees, the minimum last Saturday, Nov. 8, brought the first frost of the year nine days ahead of the average first frost, and there was some ice. Warmest day of the week was Monday, Nov. 10, with a high of 85 and a low of 56.

ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH HAS NEW PASTOR

DEVINE — Rev. Gerald Boehm of High Hill has come to Devine to take over the duties as pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic church. Rev. Boehm is a former Medina County boy and is related to a number of our citizens. He is accompanied by his mother, who will make her home with him.

Some Hits, Some Misses, But They All Bring Back A Good Story

Yancey Road To Be Paved By Next July

There is little joy in Yancey this week after their gridiron defeat at the hands of LaCoste, but there is some good news on tap for Yancey folks who are tired of the beating their cars take every time they head for Hondo.

That news is that the Yancey-Hondo road should be paved by July of 1948.

If the unpaved section of the road had been in the county program it would have been paved before now, according to County Judge Arthur Rothe. But the section that consists of rocks, nails and staples is in the state three year program for which funds come jointly from federal and state governments. That program calls for completion of the road within three years from July 1, 1945 — by next July in other words.

Four Divorces, One Tax Suit In District Court

Judge Roger Thurman of Del Rio, of the 63rd Judicial District, substituted for Judge K. K. Woodley Monday, Nov. 10 in a session of district court. Woodley had court duty elsewhere.

Cases heard during the day consisted of 4 divorce suits and one tax suit. Criminal cases originally scheduled for this session were postponed until Jan. 7.

Divorce cases heard were those of Gloria E. McKelvy vs. William H. McKelvy in which Frank X. Vance was appointed to represent the defendant cited by non-resident notice and in military service of the United States; L. J. Fowler vs. Frankie Jean Fowler in which plaintiff was granted divorce fixing custody of minor child subject to right of visitation by defendant and ordering half acre of land and improvements thereon sold and proceeds divided between plaintiff and defendant; plaintiff was awarded divorce, custody of minor child, and fixing allowance for support in case of Clara Vara vs. Salvador Vara; and in the case of Maryle Busby vs. Jack C. Busby divorce was granted plaintiff and custody of minor children, fixing support allowance of $75, per month to be paid by defendant.

In the tax suit involving The State of Texas vs. Wm. G. Hauser, by agreement, judgement was for defendant without prejudice to plaintiffs right to re-assess property at fair market value.

Next regular session of district court is scheduled for Dec. 2.

125 BLOCKS OF NEW PAVING IN HONDO TO BE FINISHED NEXT WEEK; CURBING NEXT

Approximately 125 blocks of street paving in Hondo would have been finished this week had not the rain stepped in to halt activities on the paving and retopping project, according to Chairman Frank X. Vance.

Only a few blocks remain to be paved or retopped, and when completed there will be 60 blocks of new paving or new topping west of Avenue M on both sides of Highway 90 and 65 blocks of new hard surface in the east half of town.

Jaycees Will Erect School Caution Signs

Caution signs will be erected on 14th Street on both sides of the Latin-American school before the end of next week, according to an announcement this week from James Golden, chairman of the Hondo Jaycee Safety committee.

Signs will be an attempt to slow down drivers in passing through the school vicinity, an exceptionally dangerous spot because drivers go close to the speed limit in heading for the village or the airfield, and because the children virtually flood into the streets on release from school.

Cafe, Gas, Ammo Business Booms

One of Medina county's biggest businesses got started with a bang this week as hundreds of deer and turkey hunters flooded in from near and far on their annual shooting spree.

By Wednesday evening a total of about 275 deer had been in cold storage at either the Hondo Ice Co. or the Hondo Locker Plant and about 40 turkeys. Most of these were checked in by hunters from East and Central Texas, although some were from Louisiana and some from Kansas. J. S. McManus of the ice house said that in spite of the predictions there seemed to be more deer around than last year and they seemed to be as big. From the locker plant the word was that they were smaller but good and fat. The turkeys ran on the average from 10 to 18 pounds dressed.

Local nimrods had their chance — and used it — to get even with others who topped their favorite fish stories in the summer just past, having learned the lesson easily that the first liar doesn't have a chance. As usual, the biggest and best of the deer are "the ones that got away."

County School Supt. Clarence Schweers took his daughter Zella Mae (17) out for her first deer hunt and her achievement clouded any possible stories he might have been contemplating; she dropped the limit on the first day. W. T. Hardy put in some strenuous hours, but has only one deer to show for it so far and he's still not sure it isn't just an overgrown jackrabbit.

Henry Windrow went out in the early hours Monday morning, braving the drizzle around Hondo and the downpours north of here, but in his own words, all he got was "all wet."

And they're telling a story about Jack Winkler: he shot a pretty six point buck, went home and got his truck, came back for it, loaded it up and took it home and weighed it. It weighed 36 pounds. Theo Cagle has always fancied the idea of snoozing on the brink of the Verde "gorge" and just waking up when necessary to pick off a buck below. He got his chance last weekend and found that it wasn't such a good idea. It took him the rest of the day to haul it out of the gorge. Or so he says.

Special early masses are being held each Sunday during hunting season at the Catholic churches in Hondo, D'Hanis and Castroville. The masses are at 5 a.m.

Postal Receipts Hit New High In October

There were happy gleams in the optics of Postmaster Harry Fillemann this week when he totaled up last month's Hondo postal receipts — they were $300 ahead of the figure for last October and slow the P. O.'s biggest month since last December with its Christmas rush.

Receipts for October this year were $2,526.06, and Fillemann is hoping the Christmas mailing season this year will put the office ahead of last year's $23,000 figure. If the Christmas rush is only moderate he estimates the Hondo office will still go over $20,000.

Chick Chatter

BY CLARENCE H. MUMME

MUMME'S HATCHERY HONDO, TEXAS

JOIN THE WAR AGAINST RATS

How many rats are you supporting on your farm?

Even if there are only a few, you should take steps to get rid of them. Rats are far more expensive and dangerous than most people imagine. Some years ago, it was estimated that a single farm rat consumes or spoils $2 worth of feed or grain in a year. Now, with prices so much higher, the cost of feeding a rat is probably two or three times as great. And if your farm has, say, 200 or more of the pests, their presence becomes extremely costly.

Rats Kill Chicks

In addition to eating or spoiling feed, rats have been known to kill baby chicks and damage farm buildings with their teeth.

One of the first things you should do to get rid of rats is to eliminate all rat harbors. Such precautionary measures as plugging holes in buildings or using metal strips on walls at places where rats might gnaw an entrance will be helpful. Get rid of junk piles or other heaps of refuse in which rats would be likely to make a home. Take particular pains to rat-proof your feed storage rooms or buildings.

The use of rat poisons often gets fast results where other methods fail. One of the most successful poisons is ANTU, a chemical which was discovered only a few years ago by a Johns Hopkins University scientist. His experiments with the poison included a block-to-block rat clean-up in the city of Baltimore where ANTU killed off practically every rat in the city.

Safe To Use

ANTU has the unique advantage of being extremely toxic to rats while having low toxicity for poultry and other animals. Thus, if bait is properly distributed, there is little danger that chickens or other fowl will consume enough of the poison to die.

From now until next spring, rats will be even more destructive than they have been during the warm weather months.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard H. Jungman are the proud parents of a new son born Saturday, Nov. 15, 1947 at the Santa Rosa hospital in San Antonio. The mother and baby are reported to be doing very well and the father is all smiles.

OWLS LOSE TO CARRIZO SPRINGS

Nearly Upset Conference Leaders; Close Season Against E. P. Friday

The Texas of old had its Paul Bunyan and its Pecos Bill, but it had nothing on present-day Hondo — we have the fighting Owls and every one's a hero.

And we mean every one. Carrizo Springs, leading the district with no defeats, no ties, won the game last Friday 19-12, but the Owls rared up and forgot they didn't have a chance, forgot they didn't have Curtis Braden. Carle became a whirling dervish, Amberson became a real line plunger and Alderette and Boon were lightning on legs. Only trouble, some fans thought, was that Boon should have used those excellent legs instead of his passing arm.

And all down the forward wall there was not an Owl not on his toes clawing for victory, and Carrizo grew more gray hairs last Friday than in the rest of the season's games combined. In short, the Owls gave the leaders a drubbing.

If you don't believe it, look at the figures: The Owls racked up 11 first downs to 8 for Carrizo; they outgained the Wildcats from the line of scrimmage 218 yards to 165; and to show you how they were fighting, look at this — they threw Carrizo behind the line of scrimmage for a total of 31 yards in the game, losing only three themselves.

We might point out also that the Owls drove the length of the field for both their scores, while all three of Carrizo's were what might be called flukes. They took the opening kickoff 80 yards for their first score; they pounced on a fumble on the Owl 20 for their second, and intercepted a pass on the Owl 35 for their third.

Carrizo was good. They played heads up, alert ball and every play was a touchdown threat. That's why Hondoans who saw the game are so proud of their Owls. They put up a terrific battle.

Here's how the scoring went: Joe Harris, Carrizo back, took the opening kickoff on around his 20 and had a clear field. He went all the way for the score and Carrizo converted, score 7-0. Carle took the Carrizo kickoff back to his 38, but the offense bogged down and Mueller's punt set the Wildcats back on their 24. Logan went from there to the Hondo 40, fumbled and Hondo recovered. Hondo drew a penalty, couldn't get moving and Paullie punted the Wildcats back to their 33. The Wildcats bogged down after making one first down, punted the Owls back to their 20.

Then the Owls moved. Alderette picked up 17 for the Owls first first down and school spirit came to life in the stands. They bogged down, punted, then held Carrizo to a standstill forcing a fourth down punt which Paullie Mueller raced in and blocked.

That gave the Owls the ball on their own 40 where the offense picked up where it left off. Alderette made 2 as the first quarter ended, then Boon picked up 6 and 7 for a first down. Carle raced 25 for another first down to the 20, Boon picked up 2, Carle raced 17 yards to the 5 and Amberson crashed over. Attempted pass was bad and Carrizo still led 7-6.

Carrizo got nowhere with the Owl kickoff and had to punt. The Owls picked up on the 22, Alderette went 2, Amberson raced 45 yards to the Wildcat 30, Alderette picked up 2, Carle went 15 and Alderette raced the last 12 yards for the second Owl touchdown. Again the point was bad, and Hondo led 12-7. Carrizo managed two first downs on long runs, penetrating to the Owl 20 before being decisively stopped. The ball went over on downs and the half ended with Hondo still leading.

Third quarter was scoreless with Hondo dominating on defense. It was in this period that, first time Carrizo got the ball, Amberson raced in and nailed the man for an 8 yard loss. Half the Owl team swarmed in on the next few plays, catching Carrizo backs 15 yards farther back and then adding another 2 yard loss. Tommy Timmerman, Joe Martin and Joe Alderette seemed to figure prominently in these spectacular penetrations, but there were others. As the quarter ended the Owls fumbled and Carrizo recovered on the Owl 22. They racked up a first down in three plays, then went over in two more. The kick was wide and the Wildcats led 13-12. Carle took the kickoff back to his 33, Alderette made a nice run for a first down and it looked like the Owls were off again. Then Carrizo snagged a pass on the 35 and five plays later big Jimmy Lansford lugged it over for another touchdown. The kick again was wide.

With only a few minutes left in the game, the Owls rolled up three quick first downs, then bogged down on two bad passes and an off side penalty and kicked out. The game ended a minute later with the Wildcats adding another victory and heading for their last district game of the season at Devine next Friday, Nov. 21.

LA COSTE ZONE CHAMPS

Eagles Lick
Yancey 28-0
In Final

Friday evening the 14th, in a well officiated game before a good following the LaCoste Eagles turned back the Yancey Tigers by a score of 28-0 for the championship of Zone 1.

Yancey won the toss and chose to defend the west goal having a strong wind to their back. Wilson's kick-off was taken on the 5 by Hutzler who lateraled to C. Keller who ran it back to the 18 and after two downs and 5 to go C. Keller kicked out of bounds on LaCoste's 35. Yancey tried, but the ball went over on downs on the LaCoste 25. LaCoste made one first down and was forced to punt again, the ball going out on the Yancey 23. Yancey could not go and kicked on third down. With the wind, Wilson's kick was good for 50 yards going into the end zone. The ball was put in play on the LaCoste 15 and the Eagles started to roll. C. Keller going over after Lutz had set up a scoring thrust on the 5 yard line by a nice run around right end for 25 yards. Bippert's kick was wide and the quarter ended 6-0 in favor of the Eagles.

With the wind to their back the Eagles scored twice and Bippert put both tries through the uprights for the extra points. Land scored on a long pass thrown by C. Keller and Bippert scored on a cut-back through the left side of the line. Score at half time was Eagles 22, Tigers 0.

In the third quarter L. Keller scored the last touchdown of the game on a spread play and ran around left end; Bippert failed to convert and the score ended 28-0 with the Eagles, the Champs of Zone 1.

Wilson and crew put up a good fight but on every play there was an Eagle in the way. Bippert turned in his best defensive game of the year intercepting two of Wilson's passes and breaking up 12 more. Hutzler intercepted one pass while Land and Lutz were doing likewise. Hutzler's blocking was perfect and every man was making his tackles count.

Yancey put up a good fight but the Eagles were on. For first downs the Eagles had 8 to Yancey's 5. Yancey was able to penetrate only one time.

For the District Crown, LaCoste will play Big Wells Friday night at 8 p.m. in Dilley. Both teams are still unbeaten and untied in conference play. This should be a hard fought game and both of the teams and coaches will be doing their best to win.

OWLS FACE EAGLE PASS FRIDAY NIGHT AT HONDO IN SEASON'S FINAL BATTLE

Eagle Pass's last place Eagles visit the Hondo Owls Friday night for their last chance at winning a district game, but the revived Owls are filled with spirit this week and don't fancy moving from the top slot to the bottom in one season.

The Eagles bring with them the heaviest line in the district, averaging out at over 180 pounds. Added to their lineup is a good 195 pound end who will help their cause greatly.

The Eagles dropped a close one to Devine last weekend 7-6, and before that have lost to Carrizo 41-0, Del Rio 12-0, Uvalde 26-0 and put up a tough fight against Pearsall before losing 18-13.

Game time is 8 p.m. at Barry Field, and Coach Bridges will start the same lineup as operated against Carrizo last week.

Georgia Lindsay Chosen Queen Of Warhorses

DEVINE — In a gridiron ceremony last Friday Miss Georgia Dean Lindsay was crowned 1947 Sweetheart of the Devine Warhorses.

In the half time period of the Devine-Eagle Pass football game, the pep squad marched on the field and formed a large heart. The twirlers of both band and pep squad formed an archway with batons. Captain and co-captain, Clifford Redus and Neil Allen Briscoe escorted Miss Lindsay through the archway to the center of the field where she was duly proclaimed the Warhorse Sweetheart for 1947 and presented with a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums tied with maroon and gold ribbon.

Miss Lindsay was then escorted back through the archway while the band played "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi." Georgia Dean, popular with her classmates and school associates is a junior in high school and may be seen at all football games as drum major of the band. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lindsay.

COLUMNIST TROTS ON TO THE TURKEY TROT

You've heard of Cuero's Turkey Trot, of course? Well, have you ever seen it? Well, we have — or rather, we glimpsed it!

The 1947 event, the first since late war caused its suspension in the 1940 affair, was a five day celebration, lasting from Nov. 7th to Tuesday, Nov. 11th, inclusive.

Like most similar affairs, it opened with a parade, the Turkey Trot closed with its parade, we witnessed only the closing parade.

The parade was last because the drivers wanted to save the best for last; it was in the parade the turkeys were put through the stunt; and the turkeys are given the distinction that is the difference between it and other parades.

In fact, save for the novelty of having several hundred turkeys led into different flocks showing all of the different types or breeds, driven down the city's business street for several days with every available vantage point on both sides of the street occupied by sightseers, the parade was much the same as had been seen at any municipal parade.

Of course, the turkey motif played up prominently in most of the floats; even Governor Jesse W. Carr, with General Wainwright, led the parade, was preceded to "talk turkey" in his speech at the Airport (where the parade terminated); and the parade, who with her escort, occupied the last float, was arrayed in a unique ensemble made of turkey feathers.

Every feature of the parade is noteworthy, but mention of three must suffice.

The pantomime of Texas Under the Stars, which was introduced by floats portraying each of the six eras, was the most elaborate feature of the parade.

The participation of so many school bands and the creditable accounting they gave of themselves in the music they rendered was impressive and makes one wonder why more interest in this art is not manifested in all communities.

Among the commercial floats the most impressive one to the man who has spent most of his active years in the newspaper business was that of The Cuero Record. Two matronly ladies, seated in an open surrey of a vintage of some seventy-five years ago, drawn by a beautiful span of grey carriage horses with a high hatted, liveried colored boy, mounted on an elevated driver's seat, holding the reins, bore the legend: "They read it then; they read it now." How could a long, useful service that had earned and holds the confidence and support of the people it serves be better epitomized?

Cuero's Turkey Trot (Trot is a misnomer, for the birds parade very leisurely and sedately with an air of why-all-the-curiosity as they eye the crowd that envelopes them from both sides and one only trots when he essays to break ranks and run away) is the development of an idea and has an interesting background and history.

The Cuero country, like most of Southwest Texas, is ideally adapted to the fowls; in fact, they were here in the wild state before the white man arrived — and he hasn't improved too much on them!

In 1908 a turkey dressing house was opened and turkey raising on a commercial scale developed rapidly among the farmers.

After the manner of the cowmen who, before the advent of cattle trucks, drove their herds to market, the turkey growers acquired the knack of driving their flocks across country to the dressing house.

The vast flocks of active birds being driven on foot to their

The sheriff wheeled, drew and fired, and killed them both.

Vail never did fall. He turned and asked to be taken to a hospital where he lingered close to death for some time but later was reported recovering.

A FEW SUGGESTED WAYS OF COPING WITH A PROBLEM

1. Figure out the loss in tire wear scientifically, figuring you will probably forget about five times before learning. This way you know your loss in terms of $ and c and at least know how mad to get. (The Economist approach.)
2. Park your car, call over a few kids and start playing hide and seek. (The Pollyanna approach.)
3. Call an oil company — it's bound to be getting close. (The Opportunist approach.)
4. Bring your gun along, hop in and wait for a deer. (The Sportsman approach.)
5. Ignore it. Smile at your wife and say "They must have gotten the air in the tires a bit unevenly this morning." (The Ignorant approach.)
6. Go a different way so you won't see it. (The Official approach.)

Note: These solutions aren't for anything specific. We've just been dreaming them up for something to do while trying to find our way out of the holes at the two main railroad crossings in Hondo. We offer them as a public service in case you ever run into a problem that they fit.

Texas, which leads in so many things — oil, cattle and cotton, to mention a few — ranks about 48th in keeping its citizens enlightened on public financial matters and in publication of numerous legal notices in city and criminal litigation which is required by law in many states.

It has been proven over and over that delinquent tax lists bring into county coffers large sums in unpaid taxes and is one of the most powerful weapons known against delinquency in tax payments. When a man knows his name will be published in the paper as part of a legal notice with other delinquents, he has good reason to see that his taxes are paid.

It costs a county some money to publish such lists. But other states have proven that it pays off in money returned and in public enlightenment. Complete lists of tax assessments are frequently required, and with such lists published no one can run around screaming that he is being discriminated against in the tax office.

The people should know what is being done with public funds, and they should not have to run around looking on courthouse doors and bulletin boards to find out.

Here's How... in Texas!

How? Just tip up a long, cold bottle of good good Pepsi. You bet!—here's how to get the best of a thirst . . . to give yourself a super-special treat of top drinking pleasure. Pepsi's got everything—finer quality, swell flavor . . . and a big 12-oz. bottle that means plenty to enjoy. There's no better drink, no better buy. Buy one . . . buy six . . . buy plenty.

Get it now!
Ice it up!
Drink it down!

The Press Fails in Its Duty

NEW YORK. — THE CASE of Rocky Graziano, the middleweight champion prizefighter, is another in which the reaction of elements of our journalism to revelations of sordidness has been a default of the trust reposed in a free press.

The department of national defense has disclosed that Graziano was sentenced to one year in Fort Leavenworth, the army prison, in 1942, the year following Pearl Harbor. He served 10 months and was given a dishonorable discharge. The charge was absence without leave, but, as everyone knows, AWOL ordinarily is a mild offense, and the fact that Graziano got a year and did 10 months of it suggests that he was a bad actor in the army. He was.

He was a bad actor before the army took him in the draft in January, 1942. He was a slum kid, like many of the best and the worst natives of the City of New York, and, in 1932, when he was only 12 years old, he made his first court appearance charged with delinquency. He was put on probation but turned up twice more in the next two years on further charges and was sentenced twice to a reformatory.

At the age of 18 he was charged with burglary. This was reduced to petty larceny. He and a couple of friends had robbed a school of a movie projector and some other stuff and hocked it or fenced it. He was sentenced to a "vocational institution," but another little job was in the works in the courts at the time so the sentence was suspended. The other charge also was burglary. Rocky and his friends had broken into a night club called the Cafe Valentino after closing, and stolen some wine and cigarettes. For this and the other trick, Graziano, under his right name of Barbello, was sent to a reformatory for an indeterminate sentence.

TREATED LENIENTLY.

The district attorney's office, then under Thomas E. Dewey, tried patiently with this kid. He was worse than the others in the neighborhood, but it was on the recommendation of J. L. McDonnell, the assistant D.A., that he got lenient treatment on the first burglary charge because he was just a boy, and a soft sentence for two rather serious misbehaviors.

But, in November, 1939, he and three others were arrested by detective Prospero Petrosino charged with a stickup with a gun. The victim was sitting in an automobile and they stole the car. The fellow said he couldn't be sure of his identification, however, and the boys walked out. That was close.

On January 9, 1941, about a year before he went into the army, Graziano was arraigned on a complaint of the Children's society charged with a crime against a girl 15 years old. Corroboration is required in such cases, and for lack of corroboration Rocky was dismissed.

When you break it down it isn't so bad, but when you put it together, it doesn't bespeak the sort of character that responsible journalists should defend at the expense of a decent, conscientious and diligent public servant. Nevertheless, last winter, when Frank S. Hogan found out that Graziano had been offered $100,000 to throw a fight—this was before he won the middleweight title—you might have thought from the holler in the sport pages that Hogan was a criminal.

'PRIMER OF THE CLEAN LIFE.'

The indignation against Hogan ran high and it was by no means the illiterate righteousness that you hear from the guttersnipes of the likes of George Raft, Sinatra and Luciano. The sport side essayists are educated stock who, with their college learning, ought to know that a citizen's duty is on the side of the law, not the underworld. Moreover, there is a sort of theory, perhaps one of our foibles, that the sport page is a primer in the good, clean life for Young America. On that assumption, Tom Clark, the attorney general of the glorious old United States of America, called a conference of sports writers in Washington, D. C., last winter soon after the football bribery job. The conference was to lay plans. I guess it did.

Graziano is a dese, dese and dem guy, and a fine figure of a low-brow for the fight racket of song and story. If we had no boxing law, and if we would only let nature take her course and realize that prizefighting is low and rough, the harm done might be negligible.

After the other war, however, we legalized and attempted to regulate and discipline the racket and adopted certain laws and rules. Of course, it is a rogue sport, or racket, and incorrigible, but when under government you encourage and protect an activity, then gov-

Income Tax Spectre Haunts Next Session of Congress

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—It is a cloudy fall day, and the last tattered brown leaves are fluttering nervously on otherwise-bare branches, wondering whether it is better to make the plunge now or wait for more favorable breezes.

About the same thing is going on in an old colonial mansion on Connecticut avenue where, beneath those high ceilings and once-aristocratic surroundings, Republican national committee typewriters are clicking, mimeographing machines are whirring and sweet telephone bells jangle out of tune.

Party leaders, like the uncertain leaves are wondering whether the twice-vetoed tax bill, carefully reupholstered and furnished with what they hope in non-bounceable equipment, will bring in the votes this time.

Down the block and across the street in an office-building where the plaster on the walls is hardly dry, sit their opposites, members of the Democratic national committee, in their brand-new quarters. They are hopefully predicting that any "effort to make this tax reduction bill a law when the world is trembling on the edge of disaster, will boom-erang.

Democrats say that if a tax reduction bill should pass, is vetoed and the veto overridden, what it does for the folks with over $5,000 income a year will be balanced off by what it doesn't do for the folks below that income bracket.

You remember the original bill, (H.R. 1,) the first bill into the house hopper January 3, 1947. At that time Democrats labelled it the 10-20-30 bill, claimed it would save the man with two dependents and $2,500 a year income only 59 cents a week, while it would save the man with a $100,000 yearly income $250 a week.

But that tax reduction bill and a later one substantially the same were squashed by presidential veto and congress upheld the veto. But now the possibility of something new (and very attractive) has been added—A community property tax provision for every taxpayer.

Briefly this means that a husband and wife may divide their income into two equal parts, computing the tax on each of those parts, and multiplying by two. This naturally cuts the total amount of tax to be paid. Under present tax schedules, for example, the tax on two joint incomes of $50,000 each comes to less than the tax on a $100,000-net income because of the steeply-graduated sur-tax rates.

GOP Confident Of Bill's Passage

Thirteen states—Oregon, Washington, California, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, Idaho, Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Nebraska, Michigan and Pennsylvania—already have community property tax provisions. So has Hawaii. The provision, if inserted in a federal tax bill, would put citizens of the other 35 states on the same basis.

The money savings under the community property tax clause would not benefit those married couples whose combined net income is less than $3,000 because the rates don't change up to that point. That is why opponents say this community property tax proposal, too, is aimed at saving money for the bigger taxpayers and doesn't help out the little fellows (although the tax advisor to the ways and means committee tells me that neither would any benefits accrue under this provision to the married couple whose combined income is $5,127,000 a year).

But the Republicans feel sure that this proposal would carry a tax-reducing bill through. They claim many Democrats living in states contiguous to the community - property tax states would support it.

Here's the way Democrats view the situation:

They know that the last tax bill might have been passed over the veto; some say it certainly could have been passed, had it included the community property tax provision. They are not flippant about the Republicans' ability to muster the necessary two-thirds vote this time to override a veto.

But Democrats nourish this hope: That if tax debate is insisted upon before the question of lower prices and European aid (including the long-range Marshall plan as well as emergency aid) is settled, the public will say Republicans are fiddling with politics while Europe burns and will repudiate those Republicans at the polls.

Even if a tax bill should surmount the veto-hurdle, Democrats still hope it will boomerang on the fa-that it gives uncommonly little to the common man and is balm of gilead for the high brackets.

Republicans counter with the assertion that tax relief is a crying need. They feel Americans will not be too angry if their financial load is lightened at the expense of Europe, provided that emergency relief is voted and perhaps a Marshall plan accepted in principle but considerably shaved down as to the total actually authorized.

You may have read the report "Taxes and the Budget: a Program for Prosperity in a Free Economy," a document issued by the non-partisan, non-profit Committee for Economic Development. This group employs a large staff of experts who study governmental problems and report on them at frequent intervals.

There is much in this latest report to give aid and comfort to the tax-reduction school, but it also contains the warning that "it is not necessary or desirable to make final decisions about 1948 tax policies at this time. It will be necessary early next year. At that time, it will be possible to get a clearer picture of the expenditure outlook ahead and of the degree of inflationary pressure which then exists."

But the question of "inflationary pressure" and how to ease it is already a highly political one. Both parties realize that they have to grab the reins if they are going to get credit for guiding the country out of a boom-bust cycle.

Bi-Partisanship Apple Cart Tipped

When President Truman revealed the fact that he intended to use the emergency session of congress convening November 17, not merely to consider aid to Europe, but also to ponder a program for lowered prices, it "upset the apple cart," as one Republican said to me. An agreement had been reached to give priority to aid to Europe. Senator Taft, boss of the Republican policy committee, immediately made the reassuring statement that he felt the question of emergency aid and possible preliminary legislation on the Marshall plan could and would be satisfactorily taken care of by December 19. He didn't say what else, if anything, he had in mind for the boys on the hill to handle. But he did assure them they would be home well before the Christmas holidays.

Then came the Truman announcement that efforts to check inflation would be considered on a par with the aid-to-Europe plan. He said the two were closely interwoven because if the dollar continued to shrink, the purchases of supplies couldn't be stretched to meet the need.

After that Taft lost little time in tossing any implied bi-partisan program for the congressional session to the winds. If Truman was to include consideration of a domestic economy program, all bets were off. "All of the policies of the present administration," said Senator Taft, were so bad he couldn't "go along with them."

And so the bi-partisan apple cart was upset.

What is going to happen is decidedly hazy at this writing.

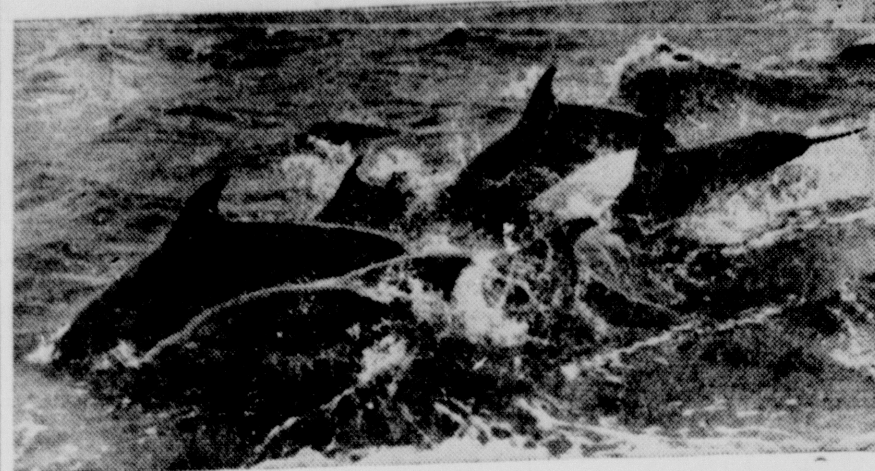

INSTALLMENT BUYING

Curbs Off, Prices May Go Up

Government controls on the favored American practice of installment buying went off November 1, and from now on the purchase of that radio or refrigerator is strictly a matter between you and the dealer unless congress decides to step in again at the special session.

One result of the removal of installment buying curbs is very likely to be an increase in the already badly swollen prices of consumer goods.

Under the law, now out of effect, a down payment of one-third of the purchase price was required of anyone buying on the installment

NEWS REVIEW

Big 4 Harmony Remote; Grain Men Ask Hearing

BIG FOUR:

Pessimism

With the imminence of the most vital international occurrence of recent months—the Big Four foreign ministers meeting in London on November 25—the mood surrounding the coming conference was predominantly one of pessimism.

That there was much justification for such pessimism, no one doubted. When the chief representatives of the U. S., Great Britain, France and Russia come together they will tackle the tough, deadlocked problems of writing peace treaties for Germany and Austria.

Deputy foreign ministers, in London to dispense with preliminaries before Marshall, Molotov, Bevin and Bidault put their heads together, said the powers were as badly split as ever on major issues.

If the conference fails, as it is very likely to do, the U. S. will have to face the question of whether or not it wants to conclude a separate peace with that portion of Germany outside the Russian-occupied zone. Such a treaty, not involving the Soviets, probably would precipitate a final split between this nation and Russia.

Nevertheless, sentiment has been rising in the U. S. favoring such an action if the Soviets refuse to cooperate in straightening out the problems of Germany. James F. Byrnes, former secretary of state, advocated that course, as have other responsible officials.

The corollary to that proposition is that the U. S. then must follow through by keeping itself strong militarily and economically, proving to the rest of the world that it has embarked on a definite policy course and that that course is the right one.

INVITATION:

Grain Battle

Three of the nation's major grain exchanges, smarting under President Truman's accusation that their "speculation" is responsible for prevailing high prices of cereals, have carried the attack into the enemy camp by requesting a special congressional investigation by the joint committee on the economic report.

The request was made by the Chicago board of trade, Kansas City board of trade and the Minneapolis grain exchange in a letter to Sen. Robert Taft (Rep., O.) and Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott (Rep., Mich.), co-chairmen of the committee. Taft responded immediately with a promise of further hearings.

Countering Mr. Truman's repeated charges that gambling and speculation by grain exchanges have boosted food prices higher, the exchange officials contended that the real cause of the rise in grain prices is the administration's "extraordinary and ever increasing purchases of grain and flour export." Administration "bungling and lack of planning" also were cited by the grain officials.

Wherever the truth may lie—and it probably is somewhere midway between the government and grain exchange viewpoints—it should be recognized that a force akin to a minor economic law is operating in this particular controversy:

Normal government reaction, whenever grain prices shoot above what is considered a safe level, is to lay the blame on the grain exchanges, charging them with manipulating prices through speculation. That has occurred often enough in U. S. history to bear out the theory. Grain dealers, of course, invariably blame the situation on over-exporting.

From that standpoint, at least, an investigation at this time should shed some new light on the long-standing controversy. It might even provide some real information on why prices are so high.

HEADLINERS

RED CZECHS: Go Communist

Add Czechoslovakia to the list of Communist - dominated nations in Eastern Europe.

A man named Klement Gottwald, Communist premier of Czechoslovakia, has emerged as a new strong man, possessing complete authority from the national cabinet to rebuild the government of semi-autonomous Slovakia.

Rebuilding the government of the semi-autonomous nation will mean simply that Gottwald and his Communists will change Czechoslovakia from a nation whose people had at least a part measure of self-government to a nation under totalitarian rule.

Although the Slovak Democrats, predominantly conservative, are the majority party in the country, the Communists were able to place Gottwald, a former blacksmith, in complete power.

Thus Czechoslovakia has shifted from a position as a Soviet satellite with some will of its own to a lower position as a Russian dominated state with literally no self-determination. It has become another unit in the string of Soviet buffer states to the south and west.

Medina County Children Invite to Enter

The Anvil Herald received official notice this week from Santa Claus that he would give prizes to the best letters published in the paper in the first three weeks of December and written by the children less than 12 years old.
It was hoped that there would be a grand contest for the best letter of them

Entrants should start writing their letters within the next week,
Santa said, and address them to
Santa Claus, care of The Hondo
Anvil Herald, Hondo. The Editor would then turn the letters over to Santa and the two of them together would pick out the best ones. Youngsters who won prizes last year, Santa warned, would not be eligible for prizes this year, but those who entered the contest last year, whether their letters were published or not, would be eligible to win if they won none of the first prizes nor the grand prize.

Santa said he would enlist the aid of several of the merchants of Hondo for delivery of the prizes, but would not announce their names until the contest started.

"It's best to start writing your letters right now," said Santa in a press statement to the Editor,
"and get in the contest the first couple of weeks. Each week the competition will get tougher and it will take a mighty good letter to win the last week."

Deadline for letters for the first week will be Monday, Dec. 1, and the best of those letters will be published in the edition coming out the end of that week. All kiddies of Medina County are invited to enter the contest, and on their letter THEY MUST TELL THEIR FULL NAME, ADDRESS AND
AGE. They must not get their mothers or relatives to write for them — if they can not write yet, their chance will come when they get a little older. Remember — include your FULL NAME and ADDRESS and AGE.

Here Are Tips On Planting Winter Forage

COLLEGE STATION — It's going to take plenty of winter and spring grazing to fall in line with the government program of saving feed grain.

E. A. Miller, Extension agronomist of Texas A. & M. College, offers a few pointers on planting winter grain crops. He says that as soon as there is enough moisture in the ground, forage crops can go into the soil. If the land is not too hard, it's safe to go ahead and plant even in dry soil. The seed will germinate when it finally rains.

Grain planted for grazing can be planted a lot thicker to provide more forage. Oats, wheat, barley, rye and Italian rye grass are good winter grazing crops. A mixture of oats, wheat and barley makes a good combination for grazing when no harvesting is planned. In this mixture, barley provides more grazing in the fall and early winter, while the oats and wheat will usually offer good grazing in the spring. Rye, especially abuzzi and calco are good crops on the sandy soils of East Texas and the West Cross Timbers area.

Vetch or other winter legumes can be planted with grain to improve the grazing. Over a large area of Texas, hairy vetch is planted with rye or other grain crops for seed production and soil improvement as well as grazing.

In the southern half of Texas, when enough moisture is in the soil, hubam and annual yellow blossom sweet clover are first-rate crops, good for grazing, seed and soil improvement.

Mr. Miller says that winter and spring grazing not only will help to save badly needed grain, but will also cut down on the cost of livestock production.

It's so easy to tell yourself it's okay to fudge on the safety rule this one time because you're in a hurry and the odds are you will not have an accident. You can talk yourself into this decision in just about the time it takes a moving car to hit you — just time enough for a tragic accident. If your thinking runs like this, you are living on borrowed time. Accident is no respecter of persons, time, nor places!

Peanut Oil, Meal Prices Strengthen

Peanut oil and meal markets strengthened in the Southwest this week, but demand for shelled peanuts continued dull. The U. S. Department of Agriculture's production and Marketing Administration reported a slightly better feeling, however, with No. 1 shelled Spanish quoted generally at 16 cents per pound in carlots f. o. b. caused considerable damage to southwestern mills.

Demand for shelled peanuts remained slow in other producing areas too, including the southeastern states and the Virginia-Carolina region.

Farmers' stock peanuts going to the trade brought government support prices in all areas except for a slight premium on Jumbos in the East. The Commodity Credit Corporation received the greater portion of current movement in the Southwest and Southeast.

Rain and inclement weather in the eastern and southeastern regions further delayed picking and peanuts stacked in the fields.

Oranges, tomatoes or tomato juice, grapefruit, raw cabbage and salad greens are excellent sources of vitamin C and should be included in menus for winter days.

Report on Resources

WASHINGTON.—While the United States can afford the relatively small shipments to Europe under the Marshall plan, our tremendous domestic consumption needs much more careful conservation of our natural wealth. That is the gist of a report on U. S. resources and our ability to help Europe under the Marshall plan, as submitted by President Truman by Secretary of the Interior Krug.

Here are the highlights of the report:

STEEL: Will be short for an indefinite period. "Continued consideration must be given to increasing domestic capacity." Iron ore should be imported from Brazil and Labrador.

OIL: Being consumed more rapidly than new oil wells are brought in. "Our exports to Europe can be expected to decline. . . . We should conserve our own resources by importing more petroleum for current consumption."

LUMBER AND FOREST PRODUCTS: In bad shape. We can't afford to export any great amount. Future forest products must be carefully conserved.

FOOD: We probably can continue exporting wheat in large quantity, depending somewhat on the weather. Fewer livestock will be available in 1948 — which means continued high meat prices. "Exports of feed grains in 1948 will be very small."

RUBBER: We can supply any European requirements.

COTTON: Acreage will increase between 1949-52, yielding a crop of about 12 million bales annually, with an export of three million.

AIR PIONEER

Howard Hughes has an unexpected amateur rival in the field of air pioneering—the President of the United States. It is not generally known, but President Truman takes a personal interest in helping to develop new gadgets for the airlines, and has converted his private plane, the Independence, into a flying laboratory for testing these devices.

The man who actually does the work on these new gadgets is Mr. Truman's pilot, Lt. Col. Henry Myers. Myers, however, pays tribute to the President's keen interest and says he frequently is called into the White House to report. In the air, Mr. Truman's favorite spot in the plane is the co-pilot's seat, although he never touches the controls.

"Don't you fool with politics," he once told Myers, "and I won't fool with flying."

Friendship Train Rolls

One criticism that used to be leveled at the Roosevelt administration was that the nation's leadership came entirely from Washington. The people of the U. S., it was said, got into the bad habit of sitting on their hands, doing nothing for themselves.

Whether that charge was true or false, some healthy signs are now apparent that the American people are quite capable of acting on their own.

One of them is the Friendship train. With no help from the government whatsoever — although with hearty White House approval — the Friendship Train is rolling across the country.

Leaving Los Angeles with an engine, a caboose and a boxcar, it will collect food from the plain people of America for the stricken people of Western Europe. Boxcars will be added at stops across the continent.

Judging from the response from all sorts of people—including railroad presidents, housewives, farmers — a thundering demonstration of the generosity of America will roll across the great plains, showing the people of Europe that help in their hour of need comes not from closed-door diplomatic conferences, but from the heart of America.

Most important of all is the fact that the Friendship Train is almost entirely spontaneous. It is the sort of thing that couldn't happen in Russia, because in Russia it is only a handful of men who decide whether wheat shall move to France, and then go out and collect what they need from the Russian peasants.

When the Russian people are able to start a spontaneous friendly movement such as this, then there no longer will be any danger of war between our two countries. Also, if the people of Western Europe get the full significance of this American generosity, there won't be any doubt as to whose side they will be on.

That, of course, is one big reason for the Friendship Train, and why newsreels of the train will be shown in European theatres, and why the French and Italian embassies are working on the idea of meeting the food shipments on the other side with two European Friendship Trains to carry the cargoes from the French and Italian seaports through Italy and France.

Kathleen Norris Says:

Married to a Nagger

Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

"He is magnetic, handsome, blond, full of fun when he is in company. But he is always impatient, dissatisfied, critical at home."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

"IT'S all very well for you," writes Janet Painter from Milwaukee, "to advise us, as you recently did, to reduce our housekeeping to a minimum, but what about me? I have the kind of husband who sees every speck of dust, who wants everything in order, who finds the children's racket very distressing, who will eat whatever dinner I prepare, but asks wistfully when we are going to have steak again—as if we didn't have it as often, and more often, than I can afford it."

"We have two small daughters, and a son aged eight, who has always been delicate. Sometimes Frank scolds because the girls tease Francis, sometimes he criticizes me because they ignore him. Often the way I dress annoys him; other wives, he says, are always smart. I get so that I dread his coming into the house at night. Who left a toy on the lawn, who left the gate open, why didn't I telephone him that the painter was here, what is this long distance charge on the telephone bill?"

"It is the incessant cross-examination that exasperates and exhausts me. My days are one long struggle with duties only half-done, for the twins are too young for school, and Francis is in bed most of the time. I read your article about cutting down, ignoring what is not essential, trying for easiness rather than perfection. But it doesn't work in my house. Frank's mother was European born, she had nine children; he says she kept them and the house scrupulously clean, served wonderful meals, and knitted socks and wove bedcovers in her spare time."

European Traditions.

"One daughter told me that they used to be switched if they didn't wear a school-dress five days, and the sons tell me many stories of punishments unjustly administered and home chores that kept them tired. But although in moments of anger I remind Frank that we live in an entirely different world, it seems to make no impression. He goes right on nagging, nagging, nagging."

"When the hot summer days came on this year I quoted to him what you said of feeding children out-of-doors, to save table-setting and after-meal sweeping. It fretted Frank to have me handle even the children in this informal way, and when I finally included him and myself in a back-garden dinner, he carried his plate indoors, set himself a place in the dining room and ate his meal there."

"Over and over again he says impatiently to me, 'You're only doing what other women do. I'd give you a good cook if I could, but we cannot pay more than a thousand a year for domestic help. You send out the heavy wash, my mother never did that. You have a washing machine, refrigerator, electric light, gas stove, perpetual hot water; she never had any of those things. For heaven's sake pull yourself together and be a woman!'"

Nothing Seems to Help.

"I've tried everything. I've tried resting after lunch, when the children nap, and then being tremendously busy when Frank gets home, dusting, baking, hanging out clothes. No use. And yet at the same time Frank is so right, so admired, so successful. We are saving one-third of our income for a home, he is in line for quick promotions. He is tender and helpful with the children, and he is magnetic, handsome, blond, full of fun when he is in

There isn't much the wife of a critical, nagging man can do except to endure with resignation, Miss Norris replies to a Milwaukee woman's anxious letter.

Janet Painter says she does the best she can, and makes every effort to be a good mother and housewife. She has three children to care for, and a large house to keep clean. Despite all her efforts, she says, she cannot keep the place spotless enough to suit her exacting husband, Frank. He doesn't like her cooking. If it's plain and simple, he objects, and if she spends more on expensive food like steak, he complains about the bills.

Her management of the household, her training of the children, her appearance—everything about her, in short, comes in for criticism. It is exasperating, Janet writes. She is a college graduate, but her knowledge seems to be of little help in this unhappy situation.

They are in better than ordinary circumstances. Frank is successful and moving ahead. He is handsome, affable and ambitious. They are saving for the purchase of a new home. If it weren't for his incessant nagging, he would be an ideal husband.

Miss Norris advises Janet to try to rise above her difficulties. By patience, humility and quiet acceptance of her lot, she will find a new strength, even a certain joy in facing her annoyances.

company. But always impatient, dissatisfied, critical at home. What can I do? I'm a college graduate but perhaps not too smart about managing, about saving myself. But what can I do?"

Well, my only suggestion to you, Janet, involves the use of an old-fashioned Christian virtue called "long - suffering." Long - suffering means enduring, but enduring for a purpose. Enduring as if it were a game. Plodding along on your unappreciated way, doing all you can, perhaps finding help as national conditions come nearer to the normal, perhaps tiring out Frank's injustice by sheer patience.

It may not soften Frank if he finds you week after week, month after month, serenely continuing with your tasks, moving cheerfully from stove to table, sink to pantry; if you accept his unfair criticisms equably, with only a mild "I'll do that tomorrow, Frank," or "I forgot that, I'm sorry."

But it will have a tremendous effect on you. By rising above it, reminding your own soul continually that you can do no more and no better than you are doing, you will reach an interior peace that passes description or understanding.

Presently Frank's comments will mean nothing to you but an opportunity to show—not martyred endurance or maddening sweetness, but a real joy. You will treat them as you might in a play in which you are playing the leading part. Your soul will find wings, and in time everything will come right, and a thousand times more than right.

Another old saying, as true as truth itself, is that difficult circumstances ought not to be dodged, because they are "means of grace." And the only thing that saves or changes us in this life is grace.

Less Argentine Wheat

Area seeded to wheat in Argentina for current season is 14,344,000 acres, one of smallest wheat seedings on record. This is a reduction of about 13 per cent from last year's reported acreage sown.

Weather conditions have been reported generally satisfactory, although heavy rains in parts of Buenos Aires province delayed seeding. In other parts of that province, and in Santa Fe, dryness is causing some concern. Danger of locust damage is said to have lessened.

THE room was full of smoke, as usual. This happened to be a gathering of football old-timers that could take you back 40 or 50 years, and bring you up to the present hour.

The argument or the debate started as to who should be listed as the real greats of football since 1889, when Walter Camp and Casper Whitney had only Harvard, Yale and Princeton to call on. In the course of a long evening, where hundreds of names were mentioned, I can give you the selected survivors nominated through the years in the college game:

Centers: Germany Schulz, Michigan; Robert Peck, Pittsburgh; Stein of Pitt. (Mel Hein reached his greatness as a pro).

Guards: Pudge Heffelfinger, Yale, outstanding.

Tackles: "Fat" Henry, W. and J., outstanding; Slater, Iowa.

Ends: Stagg, Hinkley, Shevlin, Kilpatrick, Yale; Oosterbaan, Michigan; Hewitt, Michigan; Hutson, Alabama.

Backs: Gipp, Notre Dame; Grange, Illinois; Thorpe, Carlisle; Nagurski, Minnesota; Eckersall, Chicago; Heston, Michigan; Davis, Army.

We could add Coy, Yale; Mahan, Harvard; Nevers, Stanford; Baugh, T. C. U.; Luckman, Columbia; but the latter two reached top stardom with the pros.

It was a smoke-filled evening, rife with the innumerable blend of many voices. Here was one of the final agreements reached concerning the top stars of many universities—the stars who belonged:

Notre Dame: George Gipp.

Illinois: Red Grange.

Minnesota: Bronko Nagurski.

Yale: Pudge Heffelfinger.

Michigan: Germany Schulz, Willie Heston.

Stanford: Ernie Nevers.

Carlisle: Jim Thorpe.

N. Y. U.: Ken Strong.

Harvard: Eddie Mahan.

Army: Glenn Davis.

W. and J.: "Fat" Henry.

Chicago: Walter Eckersall.

These are the ones that got most of the votes.

All-Time All-America

Some years ago, John Sims (Shipwreck) Kelly of Kentucky wrote to 52 coaches asking each to name the greatest player he had ever seen or coached. Only one man got two votes. His name was Jim Thorpe.

In this conclave, it was generally agreed that Bronko Nagurski was the top all-around star, tackle, end or back, and Pudge Heffelfinger the most amazing football player, who at the age of 53 was still the best guard in the country. Ask Bo McMillin.

In naming an all-time, college All-America team, there are only a few men who stand out. One is Germany Schulz of Michigan, 6 feet 4, weight 245 pounds, faster than most of his backs, at center. Another is Pudge Heffelfinger, of Yale, a star guard in 1921 or 1922, more than 30 years later.

"Fat" Henry of W. and J. is rated by Lou Little and other veterans as the greatest tackle the college game has ever known. The ends are a problem far beyond our limited range. Hinkley and Shevlin of Yale were two of the greatest defensive ends football has ever known. Hutson and Oosterbaan of Alabama and Michigan were two of the best offensive ends. Don Hutson was undoubtedly the most valuable end that ever walked on a football field. You must start with Hutson. I'll let you pick the other end.

When it comes to the backs, we'll give you three quick names—Bronko Nagurski, Jim Thorpe and Red Grange. For the fourth college spot we can give you Walter Eckersall, Glenn Davis, Ernie Nevers, Dutch Clarke, George Gipp and Ken Strong.

Notre Dame supporters are 100 per cent back of George Gipp, the Far West rolls with Ernie Nevers of Stanford. We'll string along with Ken Strong, one of the best blockers of all time, a great ball carrier, the best kicker we have ever seen and one of the best passers. Also Glenn Davis.

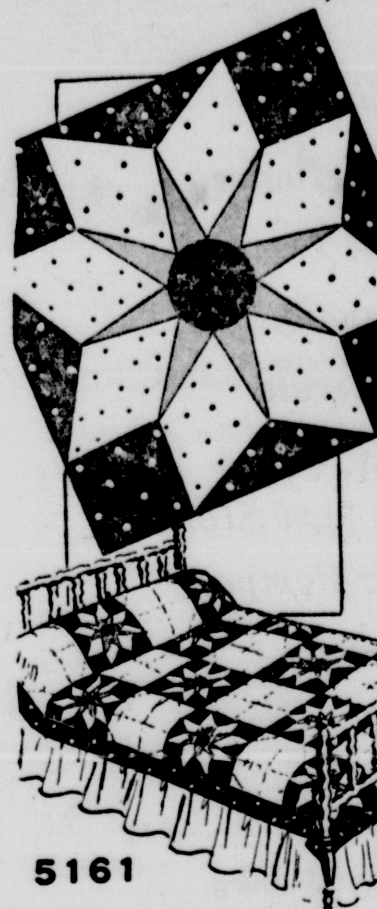

The Super Backfield

If we had to pick an all-time college backfield, it would be Grange at quarter, Thorpe and Strong at the halves, Nagurski at fullback. Davis? Yes, we'd want Davis. Our ends, under the modern game, would be Hutson and Hewitt. Outside of Heffelfinger, there has been no outstanding college guard, and outside of Henry there has been no outstanding college tackle.

The two best passers have been Baugh and Luckman, exceptionally good in college, but far better in the pro game. In the college game Friedman and Goversall were just as good.

Sunflower Quilt That's Colorful Adorable Easy Crocheted Kitten

Easy-to-Do Quilt

ONE of the easiest quilt designs to make, as the diamond-shaped pieces can be cut simply and sewn into a block. For this sunflower motif use brown-flecked percales, tiny patterned cream and yellow cottons, polka-dotted background. The center should be vivid yellow — have 12 piece blocks each 14 inches square, and 12 plain white or yellow blocks.

To obtain cutting patterns for the Sunflower Quilt (Pattern No. 5161) complete piecing and finishing directions, amounts of all materials specified. Send 20 cents in coin, your name, address and pattern number.

Cute Toy for Tot

AS CUTE as can be is this crocheted kitten for tots to carry around. Crocheted of grey wool with white face, paws and tail, green eyes, black nose and mouth are embroidered in simple stitches. Add a big pink bow.

Save needless hours of repair work by catching small tears and tiny rips promptly. Besides, if you darn a small tear, the repair job will be less conspicuous.

Tuck a pot-holder into the knee of each stocking when you scrub the kitchen or bathroom floor. No sore knees tomorrow.

Don't forget those top shelves in the kitchen that hold infrequently-used items. They should be given a periodic washing. Remove items from the shelf and then go over it with a soapy cloth.

Use godets to widen peg-style skirts. These are circular inserts set into the seam. Make them narrow at the top, tapering almost to a point. The full width is at the hemline to make a flared style of a straight skirt.

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, aches, headaches, dizziness, swelling, pain, getting up at night, etc. You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. BUSINESS ACTIVITY PRACTICALLY UNCHANGED IN SEPTEMBER; FARM INCOME KEEPS TOTAL HIGH

AUSTIN — Business activity in September remained practically unchanged from August, according to the composite index compiled by the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

Each of the three summer months showed an increase over the preceding month, and both August and September set new highs for business activity.

The Bureau's index declined slightly during September, but the fall was not enough to be considered a significant change from August level. Adjustment for seasonal variation has removed the data the effect of the traditional "summer slump," which is particularly noticeable in retail trade.

Practically all of the setback in the composite index of Texas business activity was a result of a per cent drop in department store sales. Crude oil, electric power, construction, freight carloadings, and payment all registered additions, while the pay roll index fell fractionally.

Income continued to lend support to the situation, the total of cash income for the month of September estimated by the Bureau to be $221, up from $215 in August.

With the continued demand for home created by the high income, the prices of products show no sign of falling from their present high situation that resembles in so many ways, there is a strangely little protest on the part of consumers, and buyer resistance seems to be having very little effect on the demand for high priced foods.

Dollar volume nondurable goods store sales are below the peak levels of 1946, but total retail sales continued to climb during the month. The upward surge of sales of durable goods stores has been strong enough to raise the volume of total sales to an all-time high in September.

Building throughout the state soared to unexpected heights in September and contributed heavily to supporting the healthy business outlook. The Bureau's index of building permits for Texas cities rose to 679 in comparison with the prewar base of 100. Permits were 76 per cent ahead of year-ago figures and represented the highest crest yet reached by the index.

Despite all the optimistic indicators, however, inflation still loomed as the number one enemy of Texas business.

Establishment of new businesses in Texas was still going full steam ahead during September, but at the same time the number of Texas businesses closing down remained at its August peak, according to the Bureau.

In September 374 new corporation charters were issued compared to 247 in September last year, while Dun and Bradstreet reported that September failures equalled the high August total of 7. In September and August of last year, only 1 failure was registered each month. Total for the year to date is 38 failures compared to 5 for the same period last year.

WHEAT GAINS, CATTLE AND SHEEP STEADY TO STRONGER; TURKEY PRICES AT SUPPORT LEVELS

Most southwest farm products sold at fairly steady to moderately higher prices last week, according to the Production and Marketing Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Unfavorable prospects for next year's winter wheat crop and the large export demands still dominated grain markets. Wheat registered further substantial gains to sell Friday at $3.11. Other grains held close to last week's levels.

Limited rice movement met firm to slightly stronger markets during the past week. Uneven trends continued to rule feed markets, with average prices a little higher. Peanut oil and meal strengthened, but shelled peanuts remained dull. Domestic wools moved slower. Less than 15 percent of domestic offerings sold in an auction sale held on Thursday, Nov. 13. Mohair was slow at uneven prices.

Week's cattle sales went largely at steady to stronger prices, with many lots going higher at Wichita and Denver. However, low grade cows at Texas markets moved counter to the trend to sell as much as 50 cents lower at $8 to $12 for canners and cutters. These brought $9 to $12 at Oklahoma City, $10.50 to $13 at Wichita, and $11 to $14 at Denver. Texas paid $12 to $15 for common and medium cows.

Sheep prices held mainly steady to strong for the week but lambs showed some easiness at Oklahoma City, Wichita and Denver. Common and medium lambs sold at $14 to $18 at San Antonio, as medium and good grades cashed at $19 to $21.50 at Fort Worth, and $17 to $21 at Oklahoma City. Denver paid $24.25 for choice natives.

Hog markets rallied some during the week but butcher classes suffered losses up to 25 and 50 cents at some terminals. Feeder pig prices dropped 50 cents to $1 at San Antonio and Oklahoma City and $4.50 at Fort Worth, where top offerings sold at $20. Closing top butchers ranged from $24.75 at San Antonio to $25.50 at Denver.

Turkeys moved to market in greater volume for the Thanksgiving holiday trade. Prices stayed close to support levels at most places. Fryers and broilers in the Northwest Arkansas surplus area weakened further to mostly 28 to

Are you on a party line?

If you have a party-line telephone, here's a suggestion...

Party-line service is best when everyone on the line is thoughtful and courteous. You can get the most value from your party line by doing these simple things:

1. Keep your calls short and space them as much as possible. That will give the other fellow a chance to call, or be called.
2. Hang up quietly if the line is in use when you try to call. Wait awhile before calling again.
3. See that everyone in the family does his or her part at observing party-line telephone courtesy.

D'HANIS — Mrs. Raymond Wolff, 1947 Bedroom Demonstrator of the D'Hanis Women's Home Demonstration Club, submitted the report for her completed project when the club met in her home Nov. 12. Mrs. M. A. Zinsmeyer was co-hostess with Mrs. Wolff.

The bedroom was open for inspection to the members and the agent, Mrs. Christine Mayberry. Improvements included refinished walls and floor, crocheted rug, crocheted afghan, patched quilt, refinished rocking chair, and matching chintz draperies and bedspread. Mrs. Wolff financed the entire project with her profits from the sale of milk and butter through the year.

Mrs. Henry Nehr presided at the meeting. Plans for a Christmas party were worked out for some time in December.

The hostess served cheese sandwiches, apple pie, and coffee.

For the period 1942-46, 500 million bushels of wheat were used for flour in the United States, and 8 million bushels for breakfast cereals.

Texas Mineral Production Gains Steadily

Mineral production in Texas has shown consistent increase among the low priced bulky materials. Dr. J. T. Lonsdale, Bureau of Economic Geology director at the University of Texas says.

"The history of some bulky products is related directly to the petroleum industry," he said. "bleaching clay, a million dollar industry, has depended on refining technology for its development. Coal and lignite, important commodities 30 years ago, have been practically forced off the market through the use of oil in railroad locomotives and gas as industrial and domestic fuel."

Some recent trends and developments in Texas mineral industry were listed by Dr. Lonsdale as these: (1) an increasing use of agricultural limestone; (2) extension of graphite production into the post-war period in the face of at least some foreign competition; (3) expansion of ground soapstone production; (4) revival of East Texas iron mining; (5) construction of one additional rock wool plant, one lime plant, two clay expansion plants, and several plants for the manufacture of heavy clay products; (6) production of a small amount of gold for the first time in several years; (7) failure of quicksilver production for the first time since 1899; (8) substantial production of glass in plants at Waco, Wichita Falls, and Palestine; (9) active interest in metal deposits of West Texas with reported discovery of sizeable deposits of lead, silver, and zinc; (10) shipment of acid earths from West Texas to the Rio Grande Valley as a soil amender.

WAA Purchase Policy Changes

WAA officials in San Antonio said Thursday the agency had eliminated its previous requirement that veteran registrants be present at future vehicle drawings held in connection with the regular Tuesday for veterans only sales. Henceforth, officials declared, the successful veteran will be notified in the event he is not present at the drawing.

Metropolitan Papers Please Copy!

Folks here were burned up over an article on Our Town I reprinted from a city paper. Made us sound like a bunch of "hicks" who whittled sticks and wore chin whiskers. (Last person I saw with chin whiskers was passing through on his way east.)

So I ran an editorial on how we spoke of city "slickers"—as over-dressed wisecracks, only interested in making money, and spending it in night clubs.

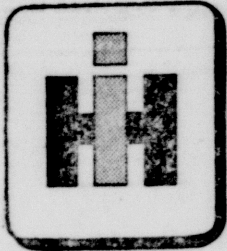

Fact is, if we got to know each other we'd probably find we're not much different, underneath. City folks work hard; like to come home at night to their families; and relax with a moderate glass of beer, like we do.

From where I sit, it doesn't matter if you live in an apartment house or on a farm—work in an office or a cornfield—the American tradition of quiet home life, temperate habits, and neighborliness is common to all of us.

The Returning War Dead Look Things Over

(The first American soldiers killed in the late war to be returned from Europe to graves in this country have arrived in America.—News item.)

"Hey, dogface, what goes?"
"We're home, cancha see?"
"We're back home at last!"
"I thought it looked kinda familar, but, say, this ain't the way I wanted to come back, bud."

"Not in these whatchacallums?"
"Spirit bodies."
"Yeah, that's it. Comin' home like this a Joe can't burn up the way he'd like to over what he sees. . . Everything looks as screwbally and cockeyed as it did before we went over. But somehow this way we get over. But somehow this way we get over self-control." What's all that squawkin' and scuttlebutt'n over there?"

"They tell me that's something called U. N. . . . A new League of Nations trying to bring world peace."

"World peace after two years! . . . After all we did to get it! . . . Are you kiddin'?"

"All I know is what a head spirit told me. He was briefin' us for what was coming. He said there was more fightin' in more places right now than there was in the war."

"I thought when a war was won it meant peace."
"Yeah, so did I. . . . I can't get it all straight. . . . All the info the head spirit gave me was that things were still in one terrible mess with everybody swingin' a punch at somebody else."

"What's all that stuff that's fillin' the air about everybody havin' to get along with less grub an' things?" . . . It must be just a recordin' of a 1943 platter."

"New Livin' has gone sky high, there's an 'eat less' drive on and rationin' may come back. . . . This head spirit told me that, too."
"That spirit knows everything. . . . He must be a top sarge."

"Nuthin's different back home now than when we died exceptin' it's easier to win refrigerators, beach wagons and fur coats on radio programs, and the hoss tracks have taken down them 'In Case of Air Raids Go to Section 8' signs."

"Jeepers, no matter how many die, the people that live can be depended on to scramble everything up all over agin. What's the kick in gettin' us home? We was happier under the plain white crosses over there."

"I dunno, Joe. . . . That's where we'll always really be. . . . We're now in some spirit body shape, like I said things don't hurt us like they would if we wasn't back that way. . . . And there's one break, soldier. . . . We can get a look in at the folks!"

"Ya mean see the old shack! . . . the yard and the rose bushes. . . mom and dad on the porch?"

"Sure thing! . . . With Stinky the mutt asleep with his paws between his legs, now and then openin' his eyes as if he heard a familiar footstep!"

"Did the head spirit tell ya that?"
"He put it in writin'."
"Let's go, soldier."

Baked Stuffed Tomatoes Save Meat (See Recipe below)

Meat Savers

Every now and then when we are called upon to save meat, it helps to have dishes with meat-like texture and flavor so appetites are satisfied. Fortunately there are certain combinations of vegetables which, when served with some cheese, are excellent just for such a purpose.

Tomatoes with a bit of bacon are satisfying for hearty appetites; so are squash and lima beans, with a bit of sausage. Au gratin combinations are interesting, too, from the point of view of satisfying appetites as well as the budget.

Use the recipes given today when you want to save on meat; these dishes are not meant to be used as a vegetable side-dish for the average family as they are just a bit too much on the hearty side for such a purpose.

*Baked Stuffed Tomatoes. (Serves 5)

- 5 tomatoes
- 5 slices of bacon
- 2 cups bread crumbs
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 cup grated cheese
- Sprigs of parsley

Cut tops off tomatoes and remove pulp. Cook bacon until crisp. Break into small pieces. Make a stuffing by mixing tomato pulp, bacon, bread crumbs, onion, salt and pepper. Fill cavities of tomatoes with the stuffing. Sprinkle tops with grated cheese. Place tomatoes in a heat-resistant glass dish. Bake in a moderately hot (400 degree) oven for 30 minutes. Serve garnished with parsley.

Squash, Sausage and Lima Bean Platter. (Serves 4)

- 2 1/2 cups cooked, mashed squash
- 1 1/2 cups cooked lima beans
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 8 sausages

Arrange squash in four nests on a heat resistant glass utility platter. Place lima beans in center of each squash nest. Dot lima beans with butter. Place sausages around squash nests. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 minutes or until sausages are done.

Sausage Stuffed Eggplant. (Serves 4)

- 1 medium eggplant
- 1/2 pound pork sausage
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 green pepper, chopped
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 2 cups cooked brown rice
- 1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
- Salt and pepper
- 1/2 cup grated cheese

Cut eggplant in half lengthwise. Cook in boiling salted water for 10 minutes, or until it is almost tender. Cook sausage meat slowly in large skillet until lightly browned, stirring occasionally. Add onion, garlic, green pepper and parsley, and cook until vegetables are almost tender. Pour off some sausage fat, leaving about 1/4 cup in pan. Add rice. Scoop eggplant into small pieces. Make a stuffing by mixing tomato pulp, bacon, bread crumbs, onion, salt and pepper. Fill cavities of tomatoes with the stuffing. Sprinkle tops with grated cheese. Place tomatoes in a heat-resistant glass dish. Bake in a moderately hot (400 degree) oven for 30 minutes. Serve garnished with parsley.

Place in an iron skillet over a low flame, cover with milk and dot with butter. When all the milk is absorbed, fill the onion shells with the potato mixture and cover with grated cheese. Dust with paprika and run under the broiler flame to melt the cheese and heat thoroughly.

actor. His radio program really belongs to the public, since each week a prize-winning script sent in to the Dr. Christian Award contest is broadcast; it's a program written by the listening audience.

Writer-Director-Producer Orson Welles decided that Actor Orson Welles would drive a station wagon in Columbia's "The Lady From Shanghai"—he forgot that Welles couldn't drive. Refusing to have a double, Welles took an hour's instruction, got behind the wheel—and drove the station wagon into a sound truck. It's a double you'll see driving.

Of course it is a feather in Samuel Goldwyn's cap that his "The Bishop's Wife" was chosen for showing at the Second Annual Royal Command performance before British royalty in London November 25. But—both male stars, Cary Grant and David Niven, are British born, and two of the supporting cast, Gladys Cooper and Elsa Lancaster, are English.

Newspaper pages really come to life in the new March of Time, "End of an Empire?" It tells the story of Dutch attempts to salvage what they can of Indonesia; will send audiences away wondering whether the era of the white man's rule in Asia is ended. It is colorful, beautiful at times—but most important, it is thought-provoking.

Production of PRC's "Brooklyn, U.S.A.," starring Brooklyn Dodger first baseman Jackie Robinson, starts December 5; it will be released by Eagle-Lion Films. Branch Rickey, who gave Robinson his chance in the major leagues, has been added to the cast.

Radio melodramas have paid off for Actress Lurene Tuttle. Noted by screen scouts for her work on "The Whistler" over CBS, and on Peter Lorre's "Mystery in the Air," she is working in Metro's "Homecoming" with Clark Gable.

Beginning November 30 for four Sundays thereafter the complete story of the birth of Christ will be dramatized on ABC's "The Greatest Story Ever Told." It has never before been done in this way.

Blanche Stewart, once famous for her work with Jack Benny and as "Cobina" on the Bob Hope show, resumed her radio career recently on the CBS "Blondie"; she is on crutches and wearing a brace, after an automobile accident.

More than a dozen highway patrolmen were needed to untangle a traffic snarl of 1,500 automobiles on San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge when Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall did a location sequence there for "Dark Passage."

Ray Milland and Marlene Dietrich did not want even to hear the word "fish" after they had to eat a rich fish stew—at length—in "Golden Earrings." Richard Denning, on the other hand, is all for fish; his wife, Evelyn Ankers, gave the "Caged Fury" star a complete spear-fishing outfit for his birthday, equipping him for his favorite sport.

ODDS AND ENDS—Groucho Marx, back on the air with a new quiz show, "You Bet Your Life," Mondays on ABC, announces that he will be narrator on "The Sidewalks," a Ben Hecht story which his brother Gummo Marx will produce for the screen. . . . Weary of riding 20 miles to take a dip in Dennis Morgan's pool, Jack Carson now has a swimming pool in his own backyard. . . . Evelyn Varden ("Young Dr. Malone") did more than run into royalty one day some years ago at the Victoria Hotel, in London—she bumped into the Duke of York and nearly knocked him off the stairs!

Editor's Corner

With the looming controversy over aid to Britain in the special session of the Congress and with opinion sharply divided and to some extent confused on the British and European "dollar shortage," a number of our readers have suggested we explain the situation in down to earth terms.

Simply, recovery in Europe has been so delayed that world exporters to Europe cannot get in return the goods they need. Since dollars are the only things they can use to buy what they need from America, they insist on dollars in payment for the materials they ship to Europe. With dollars, they can buy from us what they can't buy from western European countries.

Disappearance of British coal from the export market is one of the leading factors in the entire European impasse. Before World War I Britain provided half of the world's coal exports, mainly to Europe. Before the past war it was close to 40 per cent. Now it is zero, with the coal being carried to Newcastle at $22 per ton. This is a result of Bevin's Laborite plan for coal which provided, a year ago, that all British coal would be used for British production of other goods for export.

We have criticized this severely, and left-wing Britons claim our criticism is dictated by anti-socialism. It is not. It is criticism not of the nationalization of Britain's coal industry, but of its nationalism.

In the year ending June 30, Europe received from the United States over $500 million worth of coal and coke. Britain now realizes its mistake in such post-war nationalism. The London Economist says "British miners could have saved Europe $500 million by working one hour a day more than they worked in May and June," and goes on to say that "round phrases" to the U. S. ring hollow "if the French will not produce food, if the Germans are not allowed to produce steel, and above all if the British refuse to export coal."

That is Washington's point of view also. If we are to effect the Marshall Plan by contributing food and materials, Britain's contribution to the plan must be to dig and export coal. It means postponing nationalization of her industry until it can be at her own expense, not at the expense of the American taxpayers.

To put it another way, if Britain supplied Europe's coal as they did before the war, those dollars would circulate and be used more in that hemisphere. But when Europe must buy American coal, the dollars all come home to us before they can do much work for other countries.

slaughter was such an intriguing sight as to attract the interest of all observers and created widespread comment.

To capitalize on this interest, the experiment of driving a flock of the birds as an integral part of a community parade was conceived and tried out in 1912; it proved an attraction far beyond expectations, bringing wide-spread and wholesome publicity both to Cuero and to the turkey-raising industry over a period of some 28 years.

After its lapse for some six years, the festival seems to have come back in greater proportions than ever; Tuesday's crowd was estimated at 75,000 — too many for this scribe to be among the fortunate ones to get a serving of turkey dinner!

Cuero was fortunate in securing for a municipal fair ground the army airport, together with most of its abandoned buildings. Here we viewed hurriedly some of the exhibits, but the exhibit that impressed us most was the "acres" of grounded airplanes, said to be abandoned and left there to rot — a negligent waste, if true, of which no administration should be guilty, especially in view of the impending threat of war with Russia.

The drive from Hondo to Cuero and back over roads we had not traversed in the past five years brought a realization that good highways are rapid town builders and great developers of business along the way.

Business gravitates to the lines of travel because travelers must stop to trade.

Since our last drive down Highway 181, when we drove through the heart of Floresville, (unfortunately along side one of its schools and half-way around its courthouse square) a by-pass has been built east of town and the traveler passes it almost unaware of its proximity.

A few miles further on, the highway goes straight through the heart of the town of Poth; where we stopped for gas and refreshments.

The public must be served; the public will take its service where found most convenient.

And while on the subject of turkeys this is no "gobbling" matter!

Save Money

Just because you blow a hole in your tire, you don't have to throw it away and buy a new one.

Bring that damaged casing to our place, and we will be glad to look it over. If it can be safely repaired, we will tell you. If it is not worth fixing, we will tell you that too.

We can fix truck and many tractor tires, too.

Most Medina County Housewives Understand

They know Medina County is a good place to trade — and that dollars spent in Medina County pay extra dividends.

You housewives, by your loyal support, have put Medina County on the map. By the amount of trading you do at Hometown Stores you will determine Medina County's future. You are aware that the money you spend in other cities injures your home town and everyone in it, especially jobholders and property owners.

Unless about 100% of your buying is done in the County, some local store may ultimately fail. If enough do, then farmers of Medina County will go elsewhere to trade, saying that our stores were not good enough for them. Finally, if all trade left the County all real estate would lose its value. You could not sell or trade the property you now believe so valuable, because nobody would want it. And you would not want it either if you no longer had a job or a paying business here. So, if home trade lags, you will be holding the bag.

But most of you see the point, and are loyal Home Town Boosters. You keep local business good, local jobs secure, and local property values up by buying almost everything in Medina County. It is a fine place to trade.
